Kibo

Truly overcoming obstacles through play TFH are proud to present Kibo. So many electronic toys create annoying bleeps, while musical instruments require a trained operator. Kibo is a musical instrument designed to be played with like a toy. A true fusion of technology, musicology and fun. Kibo is light, tough and cutting edge technology from Italy. Engagingly simple, but fiendishly complex under the hood, Kibo presents 3 forms of music composition to the user through its 8 chunky wooden blocks. These lovely tactile shapes stack magnetically and snap into place on the smooth board pleasingly, and that's when the magic begins. Tap the blocks to play 40 different instruments (just turn the knob to change) in mode one - the harder you tap, the louder they play (it's a musical instrument). Build complex compositions by adding and removing the blocks in mode two - the lower 4 blocks build a bassline, the upper 4 build the harmony. Mode 3 is a combo mode, the top row builds up a melody, while the bottom row allows you to tap out an accompanying beat. Battery powered (~40 hours, recharges like a phone). Rechargeable non-replaceable Battery .

• 30 x 23 x 2cm

6KIBO$1,995.00

Kibo is of course Bluetooth-driven via app on an iPad (not included). The App (kodaly) is free to download & requires no musical training. Kibo is a true MIDI controller and can therefore be integrated into other (more complex) apps like Garage Band, Beat maker and Ableton. Some of these apps are free and quite easy to get into. We hope that while Kibo is engaging and educating to play, it will also be a gateway to the truly exciting world of music technology. Play up to 7 Kibos in a group from a single iPad (update in 2021 to allow remote online groups). This multiplayer feature is so simple to set up and use, it's "gold dust". Kibo requires an iPad or iPhone, headphones or a powered speaker for a performance.

9RSEC

$788.00

Typically we think of music as being 'heard' by the ear, our most sensitive organ to the vibrations in the air. When the notes are very deep we also feel them with our body. Such vibration is the basis of Vibroacoustic therapy. The TFH Resonance Range magnifies musical vibrations so they are felt more easily. All Resonance items require an Amp, our Resonator Amp is perfect.

Resonance Beanbag

A beanbag with a beat. The special speaker inside provides strong musical resonance. • 8 cubic feet

Our skin is our largest sensory organ. Tickling labels and unfamiliar fabrics can be annoying, and particularly for those who are tactile sensitive.

We believe that exposure to new textures can be fun and that through controlled tactile play we can widen our senses and reduce unpleasant experiences.

Messy play is the ultimate tactile challenge and well worth the effort.

Water: The most abundant substance on Earth and the source of all life.

Water is weird: its solid form floats on its liquid form (also essential for life on earth), but perhaps oddest of all... water is both safe and fun.

So children should study it and they love to play with it.

Develop your understanding of PROPRIOCEPTION in this chapter.

Proprioception makes up a large part of sensory therapy. But, what is it and how does it work? Proprioception is, essentially, an awareness of one's own body; its movement, balance and how all parts relate to one another.

Products in this section have been chosen for their ability to help with the concept of body awareness. Any product that encourages reaching, or helps with positioning or balance will also have this benefit.

Squease | Proprioception

From being wrapped in swaddling blanket, to being tucked in at bedtime – “Sleep tight!” – to pulling a top tight around shoulders against a dark evening, there is something inherently comforting and calming about being tightly wrapped. Think of it like white noise or a blank canvas for your proprioceptive sense. Weighted products employ ‘Deep Pressure Touch Stimulation’, steady proprioceptive stimulation that balances other sensory “noise”, reducing distraction and the craving to self-stimulate.

The VESTIBULAR sense is a key element in sensory integration therapy.

Children and adults who are sensory challenged will often use toys that spin or bounce to stimulate their vestibular system - or their inner ear. The inner ear helps with balance and lets the body know when, and how fast, it is moving.

Some of our favourite vestibular activities involve playground accessories such as swings, trampolines, bouncers, and rockers. These recreational activities are self-paced and fun, making them ideal for both stimulating the under-responsive child and calming for the over-responsive or sensory seeking child.

We are well known for our swing frames and accessories. These are not the cheapest frames but they are very high quality. TFH frames are made from 2" O/D galvanised steel with nylon swing bearings. The wide splay of the legs, in relation to the frame height, and the long hooked stakes give maximum stability.

Ever since Jean Ayers identified* the importance of Sensory Integration (SI), and suggested a link with our vestibular sense, therapists have been including a regimen of swinging and spinning in their programs. It is possible* that a stimulated Vestibular helps the brain organise and process other sensory input. At TFH we believe in fun, and at this price you can experiment for yourself. Sensory Integration and the Child, 1979. “An important area for future research is to evaluate Sensory Integration in studies with strong experimental designs. Professionals should present Sensory Integration as untested and encourage families who are considering this intervention to evaluate it carefully” - The Association for Science in Autism Treatment (ASAT).

Gross motor skills and the progression of their development enables a person to be in control of their larger muscles. Much focus is placed on torso strength and control as it is the “centre of control” for the rest of the body. Fine motor skills enable precise motions, like picking up small objects, twisting knobs. Gross motor is more physical activity, whereas fine motor incorporates mental and muscle to complete tasks.

Whizzy Dizzy

This spinning disc is self propelled. The central disc provides a place for pulling yourself around as fast as you dare. 40kg Max. • 30 x 50cm dia

8WZDZ $285.00

A little bit of instability. The body responds; engaging the stabilising muscles of the abdomen in order to maintain balance and control and, when that's not enough, all the other muscles and movement skills. So wobbly supports help strengthen, improve flexibility, co-ordination, and body awareness.

Rock Around

The Rock Around is a fun toy to help kids work on balance and coordination skills! Children will enjoy the sense of motion as they twist and tilt on the Rock Around. There is even room for two smaller children to sit in it together. Encourage kids to spin and rock, or let them have fun and move in whatever way they like! The rocker has an ergonomic rim which prevents fingers from being pinched between the disc and the floor. A great activity to strengthen gross motor development and core stability. Suitable for indoor or outdoor play.

3RFLR

$679.00

A Switch is a product that you plug into a Reward to "Activate" it. To "Operate" the Switch you have to perform a task, like squeezing the Squish Switch. Most rewards are Activated only while the Switch is being Operated: such a relationship is called "Momentary". Everyday light switches are on/off, or "Latched", staying on until you perform another task. The third type of switching is "Timed"; think of a toaster - you switch it on and after a while it switches itself off. Timed Switches often incorporate an adjustable timer allowing you to decide roughly how burnt you want your toast, so to speak. A Switch/Reward is a product that incorporates both the Switch and the Reward; these can be particularly useful in introducing and transferring Cause and Effect, especially if the reward can later be switched off and a remote reward plugged in.

Aquari-round

Overlapping undersea images rotate at different speeds behind a rippled surface creating a quiet, lovely, and silent 360-degree show. Our senses are important, they help us process and understand our surroundings and daily situations through touching, smelling, seeing, hearing and tasting. A Multi-Sensory Environment (MSE) is a source of control and empowerment for either relaxation or stimulation of our senses; it is a safe place to explore a sensory world.

Multi-Sensory equipment provides environmental control. This is why MSE's are known to produce a wide range of positive results in people with alternative and special needs who often depend on others. Installing an MSE will positively affect both care-giver and client. Every staff member can be easily trained to use the MSE safely.

TFH consultation and design will help you get the most from your budget and space. Have us involved as early as possible in the design phase; we provide free valuable advice to architects, builders and especially electricians.

At TFH we have been designing and installing Multi Sensory Environments (MSE) for over 25 years in a variety of settings including schools, hospitals, and private homes.

While every Multi Sensory Environment is designed to suit our clients' requirements, the goal is always to provide a safe and rewarding environment within which the normal rules do not apply.

Rich sensory spaces react to the user, allowing individuals to affect and even control their world.

Touch screen technology is rapidly changing the potential of MSE, but a TFH installation will always be simple to use. That's the point!

Bubble Columns are the visual focal point of a multi-sensory room.

A really good Bubble Column has bright controllable colours: its quiet pump is powerful and can be controlled by a user with a switch.

Airflow in a TFH Column can also be easily adjusted to effect the mood of the space: a gentle flow is more relaxing; full power is highly stimulating; and 3 pulse patterns make the space come alive.

Our columns are all strongly built and thoroughly tested in our UK workshop.

They will not leak.

We highly recommend the addition of a Security Bracket and if space allows, a Podium.

Podiums | MSE

Hide the Bubble Column base and prevent its movement.
A padded wooden podium also provides the user with a comfortable place to sit next to the bubble column and fully experience the effects. Podiums also provide an excellent home for a Fibre Optic Light Source. TFH can make podiums in any size or shape, curves cost more.

With mirrored sides and a padded top our podiums are the sturdy stalwarts of the Sensory room. Available in 2 shapes allowing the creation of all sorts of interesting shapes. Our podiums also feature a control panel retaining control over the hidden bases. Available in a wide range of colours.

Fireworks: Fill the sky with fireworks. Tunnels: Your colour choice grows from the center of the screen. Creative: The sprite moves across the screen, descending each time like a finger on a page of text your colour choice expands from that point. Create organic displays easily (with skill and patience more deliberate forms).

Pixels plays back your last fireworks display, remembers your creation and reverses your tunnel collapsing your expanding pattern back toward the center, changing the illusion of movement and reminding you of your choices.

Colour Wash Kit A - 2m Starter Kit

2 Interactive strips of light. Easily mounted, they "wash" an area with bright and intense colours. Typically installed in groups on the ceiling or near the top of walls they can also run along the top of padding or be mounted in a podium. A group of 6 can be linked together as one, and will slowly fade from one colour to another through the full spectrum of colours. Alternatively the built-in receiver means that they are ready to be controlled by our controllers or by our iPad app. 12v Power Supply included.

Firework Controller

A giddy array - so many buttons, so many options. Our buttons are made in Japan and are made to be "mashed", but they respond beautifully to discerning decision making too.

9GBTC

$999.00

Podium Controller

8 Colour switches incorporated into a Podium top.
• 90 x 90cm

9SQPD

$1,985.00

Our Controllers can be used by themselves or alongside our MSE Genie App.

Switched to Magpie a Controller will grab every Reward it can, controlling them directly. Switched to Genie our Controller sends its signals to an iPad (or iPhone). Use our simple app to point the Controller at different rewards, meaning that control relationships are extremely fluid and interesting.

In either case the more Controllers and Rewards you have the more interesting you can make your Control environment!

Download on the
App Store

MSE Genie V1.03
DOWNLOAD FROM APP
STORE

Available on the App store. Requires at least an iPad 3 / iPhone 4s, older models will not work.

9GENIE

Control your MSE with an iPad or iPhone (Bluetooth, no wi-fi required). Easy to use and understand, the MSE Genie app can change all our Rewards with a single button, or offer the user fairly complex control options. Genie can also enliven our Colour Controllers, changing which items they control, in a fun sort of internet of things.

In Quasimodo mode Genie will listen for notes and change the colour of your bubble columns, Fibre Optics (anything with a receiver) when it hears a note. Now our Bells, Wak-a-Tubes & Drums are switches! Also responds to guitars, keyboards and whistling.

NEW

Power Controller

Pairs automatically with our Bluetooth kit and allows you to switch it on and off conveniently from a single place, without the need for expensive electrical work. In an MSE It's important not to have everything on all the time, our Power Controller makes it much easier to handle this. The Power Controller is also very helpful in enabling you to Sequence your equipment. Deliberately sequencing your equipment is fun and gives an enhanced level of control which your students may love.

The Projector is the heart of a Multi-Sensory Environment, casting gently moving images and patterns onto the walls, floor and anyone in the way. Projection Curtains double the impact of the projector, as the image is projected both on and through the sheer material. Projection Curtains allow you to actually touch the images without casting a shadow, creating a relaxing, almost fluid space, completely surrounded by light. Add a fan to stimulate the curtains or a Panoramic Rotator to send the images flowing around the room and you have created an environment in which the normal rules have changed.

Different behaviours will be exhibited; what can you make of them? Both Projectors can be secured to a shelf or to the ceiling by a swivel point that allows the image to be moved while holding the projector safely in one place.

Scent Diffuser

Powerful and low-maintenance Diffuser. Most Aromatherapy Diffusers rely on significant human input, it's part of the fun really, choosing the oils and setting it all up. This is more of a Set-and-forget machine, because even the best Sensory Rooms can sometimes smell a little off-putting, and all of them require human to human engagement. Requires setting up (once) using the simple App so that it runs only during sensible times. Then let it run. A large bottle (250ml) of scent and sensible diffusion settings mean monthly maintenance at most, you might get much longer. Consider buying additional units for scent variation, using more sophisticated settings in the App. 12v. • 13 x 18 x 8cm

9STBP $6,750.00

Illuminated Ball Pool

The base of this Ball Pool lights-up illuminating 3,000 transparent balls. Colour choice available through our range of switches or via the MSE Genie App. Custom sizes available, price on application. 260 x 210 x 70cm External. • 200 x 150cm

9BPCR $9,895.00

TFH Super Ball Pools are particularly sturdy. The 30cm walls allow us to build big, and tall (70cm). And when we say “tall”, we do of course mean “deep”, and when we say “deep” we do of course mean “fun”.

500 Clear Ball Pool Balls

Allows the lights of the illuminated ball pool to be seen, also fun to add to the mix in a regular pool. a 1m square pool requires approx 2,000 balls. • 70mm dia

9VAPB $625.00

500 Ball Pool Balls (mixed colours)

High quality (10g) LDPE Balls. • 75mm dia

8ROPB $625.00

Air Ball Pool - Square
